NUCLEAR ATTACK

Crisis hits DISEC as ISIS hijacks all television and ISPs in UAE and ISIS leader-Abu Bakr Al Baghdadi has declared that there will be an even worse 9/11 that could possibly be nuclear. Updates reveal that while the US suspects Iran due to their nuclear facilities, ISIS itself proclaims that the weaponry was stolen from North Korea and Russia. This development has confronted the DISEC committee and has the delegates in roaring debate over USA being the core of the issue for allegedly sponsoring ISIS, claims which USA vehemently denies. The thought process of the whole house was along the lines that the ISIS was formed by the USA that have been funding the ISIS through their allies that have been acting as alibies for the USA. A resolution on the topic has not yet been reached.

HEATED SESSION

The International Court of Justice had a heated session when Serbia had accused Croatia of committing acts of genocide against the Serbs, thus breaking both the convention on genocide as well as the convention on racial discrimination. The Serbs that had resided Croatia have attempted to overthrow the government and were thus tied. Croatia asked for proof of the act of rape or burning that Croats had allegedly committed against the Serbs, which the Serbs had provided on the basis of an independent news source. The discussion continued as attorneys debated on what constituted genocide and which side was responsible for greater crimes against humanity. The debate intensified as the blame for genocide is passed back and forth with previous war crimes being brought up.

CRISIS IN SOCHUM AGAIN

The Social, Humanitarian and Cultural Affairs Committee were disrupted by the announcement of a crisis; The NSA's PRISM mass surveillance program has improved its wiretapping and computer network surveillance, concentrating on China, Russia, Germany and India. In response to this issue, the delegation of Germany delivered an infuriated riposte, stating that it is a violation of privacy. USA retorted by declaring that Angela Merkel, the Chancellor of Germany, had previously agreed to the US scrutiny program, therefore there was no form of transgression. However, Rwanda supported Germany on their statement by declaring "how disappointed they were on how the USA uses software like PRISM to spy on civilians." The SOCHUM house is yet to come up with a solution to this crisis.
